

Representative Cawthorne Learns a Harsh Lesson

The man pictured to the right is Madison Cawthorne, a Republican Representative from North Carolina in the US Congress. Cawthorne is a fairly generic and uninteresting politician: mostly a typical conservative, although he is one of the youngest men in office (at 26 years old) and aligns with the liberals on some things, like taking down Confederate statues since they “commemorate traitors” of the United States.

In a word, Cawthorne is an establishment official, nothing subversive. He is generally recognized as a firm follower of the Republican Party's line.

But Mr. Cawthorne let us in on a little secret as of late. On 27 March 2022, Cawthorne appeared on the Warrior Poet Society podcast and gave an allegation that should surprise us none at all:

"The sexual perversion that goes on in Washington... I mean I'm a young guy, with the average age of [politicians being] probably 60 or 70... I look at all these people, a lot of them that I've looked up to through my life. I've always paid attention to politics guys, then all of the sudden, I get invited to like, well, 'Hey, we're going to have kind of a sexual get together at one of our homes, you should come there'. And then you realize they're asking you to come to an orgy. Or the fact that there's some of the people that are leading the movement to try and remove addiction in our country, and then you watch them doing a bump of cocaine right in front of you and it's like, 'Wow this is wild.'" (Moore, 28 March 2022)

The Democratic crowd was a bit on the fence about this one. On one hand, the Republicans were now being accused of drug orgies, and by one of their own young members – of course, it lacked all the elements about child sacrifice and Satan worship, but that wouldn't stop the liberal propagandists from making the comparison to Pizzagate anyways. However, the problem was that acknowledging Cawthorne's claims as true would implicitly mean the Democrats admit drug-fueled orgies do in fact take place in DC. Thus, they ultimately gave us a watered-down diatribe about how this episode proves it is irresponsible and wrong to accuse elites of pedophilia.

"Cawthorn's orgies line shows how right-wing politics can boomerang", writes Paul Waldman for The Washington Post. (Waldman, 29 March 2022)

The leading Republicans, naturally, was not fond of this young recruit stepping out of line so soon. The Party leadership publically chastised Cawthorne over the course of the following week. The Hill reports:

“Republican House Leader Kevin McCarthy said Madison Cawthorn’s allegations of being invited to orgies and seeing people do cocaine were unfounded and that he would not rule out further disciplinary action for the freshman member.”

“‘He’s got to turn himself around,’ McCarthy told reporters, ‘This is unacceptable, there’s no evidence to this. That’s unbecoming of a congressman. He did not tell the truth... He’s lost my trust, and he’s gonna have to earn it back.’”

“Asked if Cawthorn could face penalties from the House Republican conference such as being removed from his committee posts, McCarthy said that there are ‘a lot of different things that could happen.’ Both Republican North Carolina Senators also expressed frustration with Cawthorn.” (Brooks, 30 March 2022)

Similarly, Sam Brodey writes for Daily Beast:

A number of House Republican lawmakers approached by The Daily

Beast to discuss the latest Cawthorn controversy declined to comment or say much about the episode at all. 'I don't know anything about what Madison referenced,' said Rep. Jim Jordan, a leader of the right-most flank of the conference that includes Cawthorn. 'I've heard about it; I haven't seen the video.' (Brodey, 29 March 2022)

We should recall that Mr. Jordan was in the past tied to the Ohio State University sexual abuse ring, with eight former student wrestlers accusing Jordan of knowingly covering up accusations of molestations.

Cawthorn's story about "sexual perversions" has made the rounds on right-wing conspiracy theory outlets like The Gateway Pundit and InfoWars. The comment sections on a Gateway Pundit post about Cawthorn's allegations filled up with readers connecting his claims to Pizzagate, the discredited conspiracy theory that Washington power players sexually abuse children in a Washington pizzeria. Others worried that Cawthorn could be murdered for his brave whistle-blowing. (Ibid)

Naturally, being nothing more than a pawn of big monopoly, Cawthorne was not murdered – only bullied. He rescinded his comments on the 29th of March and “admitted” he lied for no reason:

Madison Cawthorn walked back drugs-and-sex claims about fellow lawmakers after a brutal tongue-lashing from GOP leaders. Cawthorn admitted to House Minority Leader Kevin McCarthy that he made up claims that he saw lawmakers doing cocaine and that they invited him to orgies. Cawthorn’s remarks were particularly damaging because they clearly refer to conservative Republicans, not Democrats, whom some GOP lawmakers regularly deride as degenerates. (Goldiner, 30 March 2022)

But the episode does not conclude there. On the contrary, the most interesting aspect comes in the aftermath of Cawthorne rescinding his comments and claiming they were all false. A few weeks were allowed to go by for the story to die down, and then the “rehabilitation” began: ritual humiliation.

In the course of one week, we were treated to the following “articles” from the great journalists and their CIA masters:

News & Observer: “Video captures NC Highway Patrol trooper taking US Rep Madison Cawthorn’s license.”
(Gordon, 20 April 2022)

Politico: “Madison Cawthorn photos reveal him wearing women’s lingerie in public setting.” (Kruse, 22 April 2022)

NBC: “Rep. Madison Cawthorn cited for having loaded gun at Charlotte airport, the second misdemeanor charge against the North Carolina Republican in the past two months.” (Shabad, 26 April 2022)

CNBC: “Fellow North Carolina Republican calls for insider trading probe of Rep. Madison Cawthorn’s crypto holdings.” (Breuninger, 27 April 2022)

Forbes: “A Time Line Of Madison Cawthorn’s Missteps—From Visiting Nazi Retreat To Wild Orgy Claims.” (Reimann, Nicholas, 27 April 2022)

CNN: “Madison Cawthorn is really good at getting bad press.” (Cillizza, 27 April 2022)

Mother Jones: “A Guide to Madison Cawthorn’s Many Scandals: It’s a long list, and growing longer.” (Kim, Noah, 28 April 2022)

Daily Mail: "GOP Rep Madison Cawthorn is caught on video with male aide's hand on his crotch saying as new ethics complaint claims the congressman gave him thousands of dollars in loans and gifts. The video is one of several exhibits filed in support of the ethics complaint drafted by political group Fire Madison Cawthorn." (Collins, 28 April 2022)

Of course, all these articles prove is that Cawthorne, like all American congresspeople, is a sexual degenerate. But Cawthorne himself, young as he is, understands politics well enough. He offers the following rebuttal:

"The establishment is launching a coordinated drip campaign against me... They're going to drop an attack article every one or two days just to try and kill us with a death by 1,000 cuts, and that is really their main strategy. You're starting to see this coordinated attack against a lot of the first-term members of Congress... Some people obviously don't understand what's going on." (Rai, 27 April 2022)

A degenerate, for sure, but a degenerate with principles! You do not see those every day.

Unfortunately, we will likely never see Cawthorne name those he saw committing such acts, since obviously, this would ruin his career – not only by undermining his reputation with his colleagues, but also because those lingerie photos are surely among the tamer images held by Cawthorne’s handlers.
