

THE CONSPIRACIES OF THE SUPERSTRUCTURE

Due to the potential sensitivity of the subject matter that will be addressed here, there is a need to clearly state the subject matter of this polemic and my intentions in writing about it. This is not much of a discussion about any specific matter, but rather a suggestion to all correct Marxists regarding tactics in the hopes that our comrades reach their hands into subject matter that must be addressed and also appeal to people who previously, could reasonably be considered incorrigible. In short, I would like to bring up the possibility of serious Marxist analyses regarding subject matter that is commonly, derisively referred to as “conspiracy theories”. I will acknowledge that at the moment, they are mostly discussed by right wing yankees and that the bulk of information on the popular “conspiracy theories” is indeed disinformation that’s dissemination only profits the cosmopolitan bourgeoisie.

However, given the nature of our enemy, their widely acknowledged affinity to conduct disinformation campaigns and the obvious, officially acknowledged matters of public record, we must acknowledge that there are genuine conspiracies concocted by our imperialist enemies and insist that all who take an interest, even recreationally, study the tactics of the previously mentioned disinformation campaigns, learn how to distinguish between controlled opposition and actual opposition and then use the relevant information to, at a minimum, turn the masses against the cosmopolitan bourgeoisie.

Believe it or not, this also can and should extend to Marxist analyses on the superstructural aspects of imperialism such as artistic critiques. The reality is that the yankee right wingers many are wont to ridicule are able to captivate people’s attention at a superficial level with what can be considered “appealing to the sensibilities of the common man”. It is not that every person who dabbles in these matters agrees with these people’s politics or is inclined towards reactionary politics, but there is an emotional and more readily accessible element to what’s being discussed. By refusing to address this matter, we allow reactionaries to garner more attention than we do and therefore sway the gullible and relatively apolitical towards becoming reactionary themselves.

The efficiency of the disinformation tactics employed by western intelligence and imperialists is truly remarkable. Even people who are wise to the existence of such campaigns are liable to be ignorant of the tactics, hence being duped into falling for red herrings. This ultimately makes them incapable of doing any real damage to either imperialist media or their bourgeois masters simply because they conflate easily disproved “half-truths” (which themselves are planted by the CIA) with the nuggets of actual truth that can be used against them. This is evident in the way that the western critics of imperialist media carry themselves, often only being able to argue using hindsight and their belief in the blatantly false concept of false consciousness.

It is true that you can use historical examples to show that media subservient to imperialists is not trustworthy and that there have been innumerable propaganda campaigns conducted against just causes such as our own. However, what they fail to realize is that this does not matter to the average westerner and that their blind faith in disinformation cannot be divorced from their material interests in being a parasite. In short, it does not matter to a westerner if neoliberal regimes are blatantly lying to justify sanctions and/or military occupation nor whether any alleged war crimes or human rights abuses actually took place. Because they benefit, they will listen to their benefactors, reprehensible and unworthy of any trust as they are. There are innumerable instances in which the US regime and CIA in particular will tell outright lies as in the cases of Iraq, Libya, Venezuela, China, Russia and Syria, just to name a few, more recent examples. These lies will be used to justify some atrocity whether it entails supporting a color revolution by sending funds, crippling a whole country's economy and trade through sanctions or even outright invading.

The bastards will then consolidate their power and shortly after, information will come to light, showing that not only was an egregious lie told, but it was, in fact, told in the interest of furthering the ends of the cosmopolitan bourgeoisie. It will repeat endlessly. People will be repeatedly duped, even acknowledging their being fooled in the past, but then speak with conviction that the new MSM propaganda is factual. In the early phases of a disinformation campaign, people will point out the very intuitive material reasons for telling such lies, prove the lack of veracity concerning both the claims and sources cited and without exception, the general public in an imperialist country will refer to these people as "conspiracy theorists".

This is in the face of justifiable cynicism, evidence and even proof. After this, years will pass, some classified documents will be revealed to the world proving that the "conspiracy theorists" were correct and the cycle will repeat endlessly. While the "conspiracy theories" I would encourage to be disseminated are not of this nature and are considered to be more "fringe", it is extremely important that we acknowledge western intelligence's roles in actual conspiracies, the fact that they admit as much and the pattern in such instances. This includes Operation Northwoods which entailed false flags from the US department of defense to justify invading Cuba, the Gulf of Tonkin false flag which caused the invasion of Vietnam, the false Nayirah testimony which was used to justify the Gulf War, Operation Paperclip which brought nazis to work for US intelligence and the CIA's role in funding Tibetan anti-communists, just to name a few, well-known examples, which at this point, they are perfectly comfortable with acknowledging to the general public. All of this does not even touch upon the notorious conspiracy known as MK-ULTRA which they carried out on their own people. The fact that this can be done more than once, without any shift in either public opinion or level of skepticism should show without any doubt that it does not matter to the westerner if their leaders are imperialists and war criminals so long as they receive their dividend of the plunder. It simply does not suit them to believe otherwise so they simply will not.

In the face of such widely proven complicity and complacency, the only recourse a revolutionary could possibly have is to convince the westerner that their leaders are truly degenerate. If you cannot convince someone that you represent their economic interests, you must show them that they have other reasons not to tolerate the continued existence of the imperialists. This task requires humility, honesty and a willingness to talk about the more personal, "simple" or even "moral" matters. The issue is that while it is extremely easy to prove the illicit and degenerate behavior of perhaps a financier or media mogul, the disinformation campaigns are successful in causing even people skeptical of MSM to dismiss what is an ideological gold mine.

Without prolonging my description of the status quo, I will describe the tactic used and how to undo its effect. To put in simple terms, the cosmopolitan bourgeoisie can consolidate its power through the use of controlled opposition. The reason this works is because just as the yankee will not acknowledge the beneficial role of Daesh in relation to imperialism, they will not comprehend the motivation behind slandering oneself. The method is to use controlled opposition to create a great deal of noise which is followed by said controlled opposition being rightfully regarded as discredited. In effect, this is both arguing from verbosity and a successful strawmanning of anyone who might just have a point.

At this point, even if any given claim is rooted or at least partially rooted in reality, many people have cause to simply ignore it. The majority of sources discussing the claim would have wrong information and hence lack credibility. In all likelihood, these types would be planted by the accused themselves which in effect, gives them near complete control over the narrative. The veracity of the claim notwithstanding, at a casual level, people will conflate all sources with each other and assume they are all the proponents of some discredited conspiracy theory. If looking to disprove true allegations against oneself, there is no better method than to make it so the majority of people speaking on it are easy to discredit (due to their own interests aligning with that of the accused). All of a sudden, a group of discredited sources seemingly discredits the claim in and of itself.

To not acknowledge the existence of this ingenious tactic, let alone teach the common man about it, is to essentially allow the cosmopolitan bourgeoisie to absolve themselves of their own crimes. The critics of liberal media and psyops who live in the west likely are genuinely against imperialism and are willing to do what is necessary to turn people against it. However, for reasons that have been acknowledged and should be implied, their entire approach is rendered flaccid due to their inability to expose a psyop prior to completion in tandem with their own condescension towards those who believe in “conspiracy theories”.

If the most vehement opposition is itself planted by the cosmopolitan bourgeoisie and the actual opposition regularly forgoes worthwhile investigation and information, it means the cosmopolitan bourgeoisie cannot lose. For the record, I am not encouraging any comrades to lie. What I am encouraging is that we shift our focus to explaining conspiracies that are more likely to hit close to home as it concerns the yankee and/or westerner. While the neoliberal bloc regularly conspires to commit war crimes in the furtherance of imperialism, they have shown to acknowledge it. This is because their own people will not care. A profiteer of imperialism will tell themselves whatever they must to enjoy their dividend in good conscience.

The fact that there is a pattern in both the US regime's admission to numerous conspiracies and westerners' continued acceptance of said conspiracies' continuation should be proof enough that we, as anti-imperialists must rethink our tactics. Our goal is to attack imperialism from within and utilize the masses in countries that profit from it. We cannot make them despise imperialists for being imperialists, but we can achieve this by showing that imperialists are coy as they affront everything their countrymen hold sacred. With whatever residual proletarian character or as they would call it, human decency, they have left, we can appeal to that part of them that loves their family, their people, their values and wishes to preserve them. While to us, a Bill Gates, George Bush, George Soros or Joe Biden would be the most reprehensible kind of person in existence, there is a level to which their beneficiaries can suppress their misgivings. This is solely because the most prominent among the cosmopolitan bourgeoisie have mastered optics and do not seem outlandish or obscene to the people living in the imperial core. What's needed to turn people who otherwise would not betray their own interests is to show them that the cosmopolitan bourgeoisie is similar to or even sympathetic to figures like Jeffrey Epstein, Ghislaine Maxwell, Anton LaVey or Alesteir Crowley.

It is one thing to show someone that they live off the fat of imperialism. In such a case, the response you get will be either denial or pride in which case they will default to having an even stronger conviction in what is fed to them by

MSM. It would be far different and far more effective to show that they are complicit in the things they themselves find to be obscene, sacrilegious and immoral. Both figuratively and quite literally, it will hit closer to home to show them that they are or are liable to be personally affected. By utilizing this tactic, we can undermine the seemingly innocuous parts of the bourgeoisie by showing that they are, in fact, one with the more obscene elements. If we were to utilize this tactic, they have made this matter incredibly simple. We are all aware that the fetishization of the occult, loose sex and drug abuse are the hobbies of the bourgeoisie and all in proximity to them. At the moment, many people like to assume that it is all tongue-in-cheek and that these kinds of hobbies should not affect our estimation of their character.

What's needed is to show that they do not fetishize the occult, but are rather genuinely involved and that all the things we may assume are tongue-in-cheek are actually instances of their rubbing our noses in shit. We all know that capitalism is a racket, the cosmopolitan bourgeoisie all know each other and only find success due to their connections. We must explore the latter point and show people what the connective tissue (other than imperialism) actually is among imperialists. These are points that are regularly discussed that absolutely no one should or even would attempt to deny. The moment you show that the connections of the cosmopolitan bourgeoisie are formed within secret societies, which themselves have many obvious occultist elements, you can use the imperialists' own word against them. Above all this, this is good for garnering popular support. The occult is diametrically opposed to the sensibilities of Christians, Muslims and generally anybody who isn't involved in either occultism or the bourgeoisie. Prove the sincerity behind their personal degeneracy and the overall weirdness of these people and everything will unravel.

The most ironic part of this matter is that it is possible to disprove the official version of any given event using information and sources that themselves are acknowledged as true by the enemy. This is because they are competent liars and as anyone with common sense knows, the most competent liars alternate between being truthful and willfully omitting and/or burying information. There is a method to at least nullify certain essential elements of a disinformation campaign which I will now point out. The reality is that the yankee right wingers who discuss conspiracies are not engaging in an unworthy activity. The issues are in their incompetence and inability to bring economic analysis into the conversation.

As previously mentioned, the more widely accepted, more political conspiracy theories repeatedly fail to impress the yankee despite their accessibility and the statistical likelihood of being correct. This leaves the question of what we are to discuss when appealing to their hearts and minds. In no uncertain terms, we must show them that the cosmopolitan bourgeoisie frequently either funds or directly commits crimes in proximity to the people. Once this step is complete, we, unlike the right wingers, will be capable of explaining why they do this by elaborating upon the economic interests at play.

I had taken quite a bit of time deciding on how I should go about explaining what these crimes are, the extent to which they go and the reasons that one would be correct in trusting the information stated here. I then realized that not only would it cause this polemic to expand exponentially in size (which in itself would defeat the point), but also be dismissed by liberals who masquerade as Marxists. As anyone who has tried to explain the theory of Marxism to any reactionary knows, they believe in any number of falsehoods, most of which are not remotely analogous to our actual principles.

These arrogant degenerates wish to posture as objectively correct despite not doing their due diligence, never reading any theory a day in their life or even attempting to consume the theory second-hand from some kind soul who would be willing to condense and simplify the information. For this reason, I must insist not to waste my time elaborating these points to bad faith actors. I am sure that even those of you who disagree with me would not tolerate such disrespect due to having similar experiences speaking to liberals. Instead, I will state the obvious, well-documented but not commonly acknowledged details of the matter and explain the long-term goals. I will then share the places where this information can be learned. There will be speculation and you are welcome to treat the entirety of this as such, but I must insist that independent due diligence and research be done here as in any other case.

It is a matter of fact that the US regime and CIA in particular can be attached to the actions of notable serial murderers, domestic terrorists and organized crime with information that they themselves will not deny. As previously mentioned, secret societies such as the Freemasons and Skull and Bones are known to have prominent members of the cosmopolitan bourgeoisie and deep state among their ranks. What is simultaneously acknowledged, but also omitted is that there are occultist offshoots of these secret societies where the proxies of the cosmopolitan bourgeoisie will be groomed to further their interests at home while also providing much needed plausible deniability. For one thing, many prominent serial killers are known to have enlisted in and worked for the US military, which itself is known to have participated in programs such as MK-Ultra. Beyond this, there is the proficiency of the hits, unexplained details and the word of the victims' families which should cast doubt upon the official explanation of the killings. There are many cases in which the serial killers in question even belong to the same organizations as prominent members of the US regime.

While, for my purposes, at the moment, there is far too much to explain, there are matters regarding various suspicions many people have had regarding the Son of Sam killings that will be discussed. As everyone knows, David Berkowitz took the charge for eight murders and is said to have acted alone. In reality, the boyfriend of one of the young women killed bumped into Berkowitz moments before the killing and has gone on record stating that Berkowitz could not have made it to his girlfriend's location in time to shoot her. Beyond that, there were cases when Berkowitz would have had to shoot the young women in public, then make it back to his car and escape, in some cases, even being chased by police. There is also the matter of the letters sent to police and media by "the Son of Sam". There are allusions to details that Berkowitz could not have possibly known but would very easily be explained if they were contributed by two of his known associates. On top of all of this, before the official version of events was released, there were four different composite sketches of the "Son of Sam", only one of them actually depicting Berkowitz. Shortly after he was arrested, said known associates and other members of his circle/cult all died mysteriously.

No one should believe that he acted alone, that there was no coordination nor organization involved or that there was not some involvement as it concerns the state itself. For all that, many of the indirect victims of the Son of Sam openly dispute the official explanation. To believe anything the MSM media or police say about this case would be to assume that Berkowitz is capable of teleporting, moving faster than the speed of sound, being at two places at once and shapeshifting. The reason that this works is because the cosmopolitan bourgeoisie are capable orchestrating these assassinations (note the difference between an assassination and a murder) while keeping their hands clean. Without saying any more, if you believe that they are incapable of it with the resources they have, you are a fool.

They would have numerous buffers, never handle someone like Berkowitz directly and use the occultist groups as a front to make their patsies seem to be mentally ill. As many “conspiracy theorists” are discredited due to their ludicrous claims, so too are the patsies written off as mentally ill and therefore likely to be experiencing delusion. As previously mentioned, we are discussing quite the competent kind of liars. While someone like David Berkowitz is a patsy, he is also partially guilty and involved. Because of these nuggets of truth and the media being in service to the bourgeoisie, they can be truthful regarding involvement and sometimes modus operandi, but also omit any information that could damage the narrative. And this is only what can be called the tip of the iceberg.

While the pursuit of information on such matters can feel confusing and disorienting with many, mostly credible sources occasionally making major errors, there is a method employed by the sources I will link that show them to be trustworthy. These are things that one can look to so as to verify the credibility of the source. For one, there should be very little in the realm of speculation. The information cited, should in fact, be verified by the official sources who conveniently omit it. As should it be impactful to the perspective of those either directly or indirectly involved or affected. The sources, if not lacking credibility would use names, cite places, cite documents, etc. all of which would go towards making a useful claim easy to verify. Such information does exist and there are ways of obtaining it. If we do not use this against the cosmopolitan bourgeoisie, we deserve to be ridiculed.

To discuss these matters of fact with anyone willing to listen will induce doubt, but to make certain it solidifies, we must go where others do not and explain the economic reasoning behind it. As we all know, the state is the apparatus employed by one class to oppress others and as such, all liberal “democratic” states are subservient to the will of the bourgeoisie. We can know to a certainty that inducing events such as the Son of Sam killings can and will cause the power of the state to expand. It can be used to erode all kinds of legal measures to protect the people's privacy.

In short, once panic is induced in the general public, it can be used to influence the law. If people feel fear, they will believe the bourgeoisie when they propose to expand the power of the deep state in the name of security. Once this sham takes place, it becomes possible for the state to crush all its enemies with negligible difficulty since they can very easily infiltrate and/or outright eradicate all opposition. If we proceed with this kind of analysis and message, not only is there the possibility of turning the masses of the imperial core against imperialism, but there is also enough to make them eventually choose socialism. They can be made to take actions which ensure that their internal enemies are wiped from existence and never resurface again. I would say that this is the best way to gain their approval to eradicate the bourgeoisie, but in truth, it is the only way.

Finally, this approach is excellent for our optics as correct Marxist-Leninists and anti-imperialists. As everyone is aware, communism is seen as a joke in the imperial core seeing as many conflate us with social fascist liberals, including, but not limited to self-described "communists" who are comically deluded, in service to the labor aristocracy and practically imperialists themselves. This latter group may claim to be against MSM, but will cherry-pick information as it suits them. As is commonly acknowledged, we cannot be truthful in claiming to represent western nations' economic interests, but using this strategy, we can at least appeal to things that the common man sees as more valuable than money. Their options will be between adopting the correct lines or exposing themselves as the chauvinistic, fascist scum they are. At any rate, their idiocy may never affect the communist movement again.

As promised, for comrades who feel inclined to pursue this tactic and are dedicated to following through, I have provided some resources that are worth investigating. .
